Final Notice of Commercial Default and Opportunity to Cure (Deadline: May 12, 2025)
This is the final notice to the individual and/or entity (hereinafter "the defaulting party") that is currently in default of its commercial obligations to the H.L. Estate Express Trust™. The defaulting party has failed to fulfill its duties and obligations as required under the relevant agreement or law, despite prior notice and demand for compliance.

Specifically, the default arises from the failure of the defaulting party to perform as obligated – including, but not limited to, failing to remit due payments, provide required documentation, or otherwise satisfy the terms agreed upon with the Trust. Prior written notice of this default was duly served upon the defaulting party, and to date, the default has not been cured.

Accordingly, the Trust hereby provides a final opportunity for the defaulting party to cure this default. The defaulting party must, no later than May 12, 2025, remedy the default in full by performing all required obligations and rectifying all breaches. This includes delivering any outstanding payments, documents, or actions necessary to bring the defaulting party into full compliance with its obligations to the Trust.

If the defaulting party fails to cure the default on or before May 12, 2025, the Trust will have no choice but to pursue further legal remedies. Such remedies include, but are not limited to, the initiation of legal proceedings without further notice, including the filing of a federal injunction against the defaulting party on or after May 13, 2025, as well as the pursuit of any and all other relief to which the Trust may be entitled at law or in equity.

This notice is being made part of the public record to formally document the Trust's good-faith effort to allow the defaulting party to cure its default before legal action is taken. The defaulting party is strongly advised to take this final opportunity to resolve this matter amicably by the stated deadline.

Public Notice of Intent to File Federal Injunction (On or after May 13, 2025)

Be it known that the H.L. Estate Express Trust™ hereby gives public notice of its intent to file for injunctive relief in a federal court of competent jurisdiction on or after May 13, 2025. This action is being pursued due to the failure of the defaulting party (previously noticed in default) to cure their default by the deadline of May 12, 2025.

Specifically, the Trust intends to petition the court for a federal injunction to enjoin the defaulting party from further breaches and to compel the performance of all obligations owed to the Trust. The injunction sought will request the court to order the defaulting party to immediately cease any and all activities in violation of the Trust's rights and to fulfill any outstanding duties or payments owed to the Trust.

The Trust is seeking this injunctive relief because the defaulting party's continued non-compliance has caused, and will continue to cause, irreparable harm to the Trust and its beneficiaries for which there is no adequate remedy at law. Court intervention has therefore become necessary to protect the Trust's interests.

Unless the defaulting party promptly remedies the situation even at this late stage, the Trust will proceed with filing the injunction as stated, without further notice. Upon filing, the Trust will pursue all appropriate judicial relief, including temporary, preliminary, and permanent injunctive orders as the court deems just and proper.

This public notice is made to ensure that the defaulting party and all interested parties are properly informed of the Trust's intentions. The Trust remains committed to resolving this matter through the legal system and will continue to act in good faith to protect the assets and rights placed under its care.
